Brodhead Hunter Sinks to His Death; Companions Saved

After clinging for three hours Sunday afternoon to the side of an upturned boat, more than a mile and a half from the shore on Lake Koshkonong, and after vain attempts to reach shore or to attract help, Clayton Murdock, 42, Brodhead farmer, slipped to his death by drowning, a few minutes before his four companions on the hunting expedition were saved from a similar fate by the heroic and superhuman work of William Williams, Charley Bluff hunter, who heard their cries and alone went to their rescue.

Lawrence G. Johnson, Nick Hawes and Alphonse Bradley, Whitewater, and Mason D. Hull, Brodhead, were saved by

MURDOCK PROFOUNDLY FARMER

Murdock was a prosperous farmer living on Jordan Prairie near Brodhead. He is survived by his wife and two children, his mother, Mrs. John C. Murdock, and a brother, Dr. Harry Murdock, Tulsa, Okla.

He was born and reared in that vicinity where he has lived all his life.

Conner Lynn Whaley having conducted an investigation, said there would be no inquest, the death of Murdock being by accidental drowning.

Williams, the hero of the affair, was well known to all who have been at Lake Koshkonong. He was a general proprietor of a Milton Junction hotel and was a bartender for years in the Miller house in Milwaukee.

Williams, who reached their boat almost as the last ounce of strength which they had called into play was exhausted, it is doubtful that the men would have been alive ten minutes later, and Williams did not arrive when he did.

First Hunting Tragedy

The opening of the first of the hunting season, The five men from Brodhead and Whitewater started out Sunday morning to hunt on Lake

Last Hope of Democrats Dashed May Appeal

(By Associated Press.)

Madison.—The democratic party in Wisconsin today saw its hope of continued existence shattered as the secretary of state announced the official vote registered for presidential candidates for president in the primary election.

With 25,000 votes required in order to have their names placed on the official general election ballot, the best of the democratic candidates for governor could poll between them less than 19,107, or nearly 6,000 short of the needed number.

Marker A. A. Bently of La Crosse got 16,118 of these and Karl Matthei of Wausau, 5,883 with 211 votes scattering.

Mrs. Jessie Hooper, democratic candidate for U. S. senator in opposition to Senator Lafollette polled 16,555 votes.

Party leaders are considering court action through a writ of mandamus to require the secretary of state to put the name of their candidates on the November ballot. They urge that the Wisconsin primary election be declared unconstitutional.

FEW DEMOCRATS CAN GET A TICKET

Madison.—Democrats who polled the required percentage of votes at the Wisconsin primary September 5, can have their names on the official general election ballot at the November election, Franklin E. Bump, Assistant Attorney General ruled.

MAN 104 DIES AT HOME OF SON, 85

Janesville.—John Yanousek, 104, is dead at the home of his son Joseph, who is 84 years of age. Yanousek was born in Bohemia in 1817 and had lived in the vicinity of Racine for 45 years. It was his boast that he had never had the services of a physician and until shortly before his death he was up and about the house doing chores and reading his newspaper.

Get Chimneys Cleaned Now

About this time of the year the "Chimney Sweep" makes his appearance in the city and many people avail themselves of his service. No one will question the wisdom of such action, but nevertheless, some persons willfully neglect the chimney, endangering themselves to fire loss.

Takes the ad and advertise for a "Chimney Sweep," now, and get your job finished before the furnace is needed every day.

A small sum invested for a Gazette classified ad may easily be the means of saving you inconvenience now or what is worse, a fire loss later on.

BEGIN WAR ON TURKS

Dispatches to the Gazette Monday indicate that war is a certainty at the Dardanelles. Great Britain has summoned the entire strength of the empire. A cabinet meeting with military and naval officials was held. Orders have been issued for all munitions and small arms factories to work 24 hours. The entire British Atlantic fleet, the greatest ever in Mediterranean waters, has been ordered to the Dardanelles. France still sticks to hope of moral suasion. The Turk is in neutral territory at Ismid. Horror over the Smyrna tragedy has given place to a high war spirit in England. Moslems in India will celebrate the Turk victories over the Greeks and trouble is anticipated. Fear of a world Moslem war is expressed.

NIGHT FIRE SENDS FAMILY TO STREET

Parents Rescue 3 Children in Disastrous Blaze on Walnut Street.

Roused by the piercing screams of a five year old girl, the family of Andrew Jensen was saved from death by a fire which almost certainly destroyed their home 503 Walnut street early Sunday morning. Glad only in night attire, the father carried the two older children to safety, while the mother, holding in her arms a five month old infant rushed through the flames to safety.

Believed to have originated from a kerosene lamp which was left burning by Mrs. Jensen when she retired, the family awoke shortly after 2 a. m. to find their home afire. Dashing straight to the burning room from the torched girl was saved from destruction by the mother, who dragged her back into the rear of the house in to the oven with the 7 year old boy. The mother, wrapped in a cloak which she hurriedly picked up, carried the infant out of the building.

Staying With Relatives

Firemen battled with the flames for over an hour in a successful attempt to prevent them spreading.

Eleven hundred feet of hose was laid. Scores of neighbors, aroused by the alarm, congregated around the house. The fire victims were taken to the home of William Jensen where they spent the night. Clothing was taken to the family.

Sunday, the Salvation Army. They are at the present living temporarily with relatives. The furniture, valued at $1,500, was two-thirds insured. The house, owned by Maurice Reed, is a total loss and only partially covered by insurance.

Plot for Clothes Donation

Due to the fact that father is almost destitute and out of employment, residents of the city are asked to contribute articles of clothing for the mother and children. According to Rev. Henry Williamson, who was active in relief work for the family, the people are well deserving of support, being absolutely serving of support.

Mrs. Bently of La Crosse got 16,118 of these and Karl Matthei of Wausau, 5,883 with 211 votes scattering.

Mrs. Jessie Hooper, democratic candidate for U. S. senator in opposition to Senator Lafollette polled 16,555 votes.

100,000 Ford Employees Cashing in Pay Checks

(By Associated Press.)

Baltimore—Upwards of 100,000 persons Monday entered upon a period of emptiness as the mammoth Ford Motor company plants were deserted, except officials of the company.

As many of the idle factory workers were casting about for jobs to tide them over, their employer, Henry Ford, renewed his efforts to solve his fuel problem. His task, Mr. Ford maintained, was to obtain fuel at what he considered a reasonable price. To accept coal at prices quoted him Mr. Ford previously had declared would be a "concession to profiteers."

No statement had been made by the manufacturer today as to the probable duration of the suspension of work at his plants, but Edsel Ford, president of the company, voiced the hope that a way out of the fuel diffi-

BRITISH FLEET TO DARDANELLES

Tremendous Preparations for Meeting Turk in Europe.

(By Associated Press.)

Constantinople.—The entire British Atlantic fleet is being sent to reinforce the Mediterranean squadron for the protection of Constantinople and the straits of Dardanelles.

This undoubtedly will create the most formidable array of warships ever assembled in a area of like size, embracing the most modern dreadnaughts, battle cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and aircraft carriers.

British officials here feel confident that if the allied land forces are not sufficient to check an attack on the Dardanelles by the Turkish Nationalists, the combined fleet, together with French and Italian war vessels, will be more than adequate.

It is now believed that only 20,000 Greek soldiers remain under arms out of the army of 250,000. These are the main retention of which territories in Greece.

This is seriously doubted here.

Colonel M. C. J. Poole, French high commissioner started for Smyrna last night to confer with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, at the latter's special request.

It is assumed the nationalist leader desires to ascertain the extent to which France intends to fulfill the obligations undertaken by her treaty with the Ankara government.

JURY CALLED TO HEAR FIGHT CASE

Mrs. Heath Charges Man Beat Her While She Was Sweeping.

Frank Waters, Janesville, was arraigned before Judge H. L. Maxfield in municipal court Monday, charged with assault and battery. The complaining witness in the case, Mrs. Irene Heath, South River street, alleges that on Sept. 3 Waters attacked her while she was sweeping the path near the doorway in front of her home.

Mrs. Heath claimed Waters approached and told her "to get out of the way." Answering that he had plenty of room to pass, the woman then swore that Waters then struck her and beat her brutally along with calling her by her names. Her testimony was substantiated by her husband, James Heath; Mrs. Lena Miller, Mrs. Maude Miller, Roscoe Van Pool and C. Brownell.

District Attorney Stanley G. Dunn appeared for the state and J. McWilliams for the defendant. The jury was composed of H. K. McMinn, Arthur Welsh, Flaherty, W. Riley and Charles Schleider. The case was adjourned until 1 p.m.

Lions Will Stage Show in October

Holding their first Monday meeting the Lions club members at their luncheon at the Grand hotel decided to stage a home talent production in collaboration with the John E. Rogers Production company the last week in October. The show will be held two nights.

Plans for the charter presentation Tuesday, Sept. 26, were discussed.

Rev. J. A. Holmes, Appleton, president governor, who attended the charter and a program of speakers is being arranged. The affair will be at the Y. M. C. A.

Watertown Fair Opens, Tuesday

Jefferson county residents and former residents will be attracted to Watertown Tuesday, when the Franklin county fair opened for four days.

Large entries in all departments to exceed those of former years are expected. Because of the lateness of the fair, many things will be in exhibit which are not shown at fairs held earlier. There will be racing on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday if rain does not interfere.

"ORPHANS OF STORM" IN 4-DAY RUN HERE

Much interest has been displayed over "Orphans of the Storm" at its first showing at the Albee Theatre Monday, will doubtless draw large crowds. The name of the producer, David Wark Griffith, the stars, Lillian and Dorothy Gish and Joseph Schenkert, and the general exploitation that has attended the picture makes it well-run. It will have a four-day run here. The story is of the French revolution, and scenery and costumes are said to be magnificent.

CAIRNS' PLEA TO BE HEARD BY GOVERNOR

CLOTHING SOUGHT FOR GIRLS; 8 AND 12

Two little girls, ages 8 and 12 years, whose father has been out of work for some weeks, are in need of warm clothing and shoes for school wear. Perhaps some Gleaner reader has such clothing that has been outgrown by her own children and will be glad to pass it on. The younger girl wears size 11 in children's shoes and the older girl, size 3 1-2, misses' shoes. The Gazette will furnish name and address of the family to any one wishing to donate the clothing.

People Are Delighted.

Announcement of the Chevrolet assembly plant being added to the divisions here and the good prospects of the Fisher company being added proved a sensation in Janesville. New confidence was expressed at every hand for a steady and permanent growth of the city.

Two Schools To Open, Wednesday

Rock county institutions open their doors this week for the new term not school. Work at Milton College begins Wednesday.

Registration of students was started Monday. A larger enrollment than in former years is anticipated. The state school for the blind opens Wednesday. Pupils began arriving Monday and more will arrive daily until the opening of school. Beloit college opens Sept. 27.

N. P. LEAGUE WILL BE IN COMMAND

Tax Changes Proposed.

Changes will include increased rates of income taxes, repeal of the personal property offset to the income tax law, change in the automobile tax to place the revenue raising burden on the large and expensive cars, tax exemption for farm implements, repeal of the income clause to the income tax law, repeal of the dog tax law and protest against establishment of a sales tax.

A permanent legislative committee to attend hearings during the next session of the legislature was to be appointed.

FIREMAN SUFFERS FRACTURED FOOT

X-ray pictures taken of injuries suffered by Fireman William Draffen in a 25-foot plunge from a telephone pole, Wednesday, show an incomplete fracture in the big bone of his left foot. Both ankles were sprained. He is recovering at his home, 123 North Main street.

5500 PAVING BONDS ARE STILL UNSOLD.

Five hundred dollars' worth of bonds of the $22,000 street improvement issue are still unsold. City Treasurer W. J. Lennart announced Monday. They are short term bonds, expiring next year, when the owner will collect $2.55 per $100, or a total of $4,255 in interest.

OBITUARY

RESCUE CREW ENTERS MINE TO SEARCH FOR DEAD

Ready for Rescue

Jackson, Calif.—When word was received today that after three weeks of constant struggle the rescue workers on the 3,600 foot level of the Kennedy mine had broken into the Argonaut mine where 47 of their co-workers have been imprisoned, Mayor O. Richard, engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, took charge of the work.

The first team ready to crawl through the opening made in the Argonaut was headed by R. E. Hedges of the U. S. Bureau of Mines. This team were to be followed immediately by a team captained by R. J. Duncan. These two teams constituted what was designated as group A.

Relief Team Ready

Group B, comprising two teams headed by A. J. Martin and B. L. McDonald, respectively, were on the 3,600 foot level shaft station and relieved group A teams after two hours.

Captains Hedges and Duncan and their men wore Gibbs of the two proto-oxygen breathing apparatus each equipped with cage respirators, bird and burning candles to detect the presence of carbon dioxide or carbon monoxide, the two deadly mine gases.

SAMSON PREPARES FOR COMING OF THE CHEVROLET

Fisher Body company will locate here, slimmers down to the tremendous increase in production of Chevrolet cars. Where Chevrolet units are located for assembly work, it is declared that it is the C. M. Fisher to be a plant for making bodies, part of the assembly work to save transportation costs and make more efficient deliveries in the district.

Three new plants have been taken over by the Fisher body company and in addition six new plants are under consideration for the sole purpose of assembling, painting and trimming bodies for the superior Chevrolet models.

New Fisher Plants

These additional plants will be operated in connection with the parent factory in Cleveland in the following places: St. Louis, Mo., Flint, Mich., Buffalo, N. Y., Oakland, Cal., and Janesville, Wis., according to the statement issued by the president of the Fisher Body company.

In an interview Mr. Fisher is quoted as stating, "the great growth in the demand for our products demands the same facilities in all departments to exceed those of former years are expected. Because of the intenseness of the fair, many things will be in exhibit which are not shown at fairs held earlier. There will be racing on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday if rain does not interfere."

Important actions to be taken as a city is to prevent profiteering. Newcomers are entitled to reasonable rents and real estate prices. It is going to be a steady but not abnormal growth and revival."

A Fatal Error

"It is a fatal mistake to start in speculating, raising rents and prices sky-high," said H. J. Cunningham, real estate dealer. "Rents with me are going to stay the same and if there is anything that will hurt Janesville it will be excessive pricing."

"Chevrolet's coming means real things for Janesville's future. We are now glad that the new high school is in operation. The situation is now it is safe to say that we will be taxed for room inside of a period of from three to five years. The school is not a bit too large for Janesville faces a steady and permanent growth."

People Are Delighted.

Announcement of the Chevrolet assembly plant being added to the divisions here and the good prospects of the Fisher company being added proved a sensation in Janesville. New confidence was expressed at every hand for a steady and permanent growth of the city.

8 Bars Good Laundry Soap, 25c

Expressions also were that action should be taken at once to prevent boom prices and to put the situation in order, "kill the goose that laid the golden egg."

"The announcement that Janesville is to be a Chevrolet assembling and distributing unit is the most welcome news we have heard since the business depression struck the country," reads the statement issued by Secretary Oscar Nelson of the Janesville Chamber of Commerce. "The Samson institution will be operated by the Samson plant and revives the hope of even the most pessimistic citizen and certainly justifies the faith that the hosts of optimism we have in our city."

"Now that we are on the upward trend let us pledge to hold up our end—to meet the demands that shall be made upon us as a city."

"As we look forward to the time when the industries of this city will demand new conditions, we must realize past mistakes made and profit by same."

Janesville is on the eve of an awakening and a certain responsibility rests upon its citizens that they must stand ready to accept:

"Our opportunity is before us—let us not be found wanting."

Samson General Office, Milwaukee.

"I am confident that nothing can stop a big revival in Janesville," stated George S. Parker. "I have just returned from an eastern trip and the trend of opinion there is that the United States is certain to experience good and lasting business."

The coming of the Chevrolet means permanent prosperity. There is but one thing to do—"Treat them right." The people of Janesville should not kill a good thing and all try to get rich in the first 12 months. Community courtesy is what is needed in welcoming the Chevrolet and not to be charging three prices from rooms, houses and merchandise."

Up to the City

"If it ask us to do, we do, what you ask us to do," declared Frank Jackson, banker. "We always have and will again."

The coming of the Chevrolet means that Janesville is going ahead first on a conservative way. Janesville should prepare for this increase. I feel that the full effects of the increase will not be felt to the full extent in this city until 1923," stated William Eladon. "The fuel and labor situation may retard all industries for a few months."

However, Janesville must build for the future. Certainly one of the Build every energy to finish the high school building so it may be used in time of need of 1922, with the exception of the problem of community center will be solved.

Janesville needs and should have ample hotel facilities to care for the public. That would be especially true when the "which is" is completed and the new building is available for the largest conventions.

Finish the paving of Janesville streets as soon as there can be the necessary arrangements for taxation as to not place a burden on the people.

Give the city a park. There is now available $10,000 for this purpose and it should not be used for any other. Finish the city and zoning plans.

THE FUTURE OF THE SAMSON AND JANESEVILLE.

The future of Janesville is closely related to the activities of the Samson Tractor Company and therefore the announcement of a change in the plant whereby the Chevrolet and Fisher Body companies would come here with branches, made officially in the Gazette, Saturday, was of intense interest. Reports of changes have been current for weeks. They have never been definite enough heretofore, not having been finally decided until a few hours prior to the publication in the Gazette, as to warrant publicity. Before then they were rumor, conjecture, partially made plans, hope and prospects only. Now that they have been coined into reality we may say that the optimist has taken the place of the pessimist in Janesville. We shall hope that the Samson plant with its new industrial activities which will eventually take form, will bear out the faith expressed originally in the coining here of this great institution representing many millions of investment. It will take time, perhaps a year or more to do all that is planned but Janesville can wait.

What we do know is that the city is now assured of a great industrial plant and that the dream of J. A. Craig will become true. Janesville owes much to Mr. Craig. He has never wavered in his faith in Janesville nor in his persistent determination to make the Samson a great industrial institution.

This was a city of 10,000 people in 1860. Sixty-two years later we have about 20,000. It took 15 years from the establishment of village government with 800 people to arrive at 10,000. Something happened after that to curb growth. It is futile to discuss the reason here. Janesville was the natural trading center of a great territory. It still remains so. And in the revived hope of Samson activity we should not overlook that existing fact. We are not unmindful of the debt the city owes to the country to the neighborhood population. It is emphasized in the spirit of splendid cooperation of all interests in the city in the preparation for the Harvest Festival when Janesville will be the host of the whole territory adjacent. Never have committees worked with greater vigor and harmony than on this Harvest Festival plan. Every walk in life is represented. Every interest in the city is at work. That augurs well for the future. It is a good thing right now with the announcement of the coming here of added industry. What is being accomplished in the Festival arrangements is an index of what can be done later. Population alone does not make a city. Action, community spirit, a common purpose, a general desire for good, a square deal for every one, a vision of comfortable humanity—these are some of the things that make a good city—a good place in which to live as well as a good place in which to do business. We can go on and live and move and have our being even though the Samson Tractor plant closed its doors and never turned a wheel hereafter. But we have learned new ways and been inspired with new hopes and ambitions since that plant came and it would be a loss in more ways than that measured in dollars and cents should such a catastrophe come. So we are more than merely pleased, we are deeply interested all and several. In the announced renewal of industrial life at what has grown to be a Janesville institution.

Anyhow the minor can always have his pick when it comes to his job.

Americans have purchased $2,000,000,000 German marks according to a Paris report and they have been keeping a pretty good record of these things at Paris. For these two billion marks we traded some perfectly good Liberty bonds and other American securities, besides cash. But the American is not the only one to have bought the paper bricks. London bankers say their customers have lost $1,250,000,000 and Spanish speculators and French buyers a billion each. The loss in marks here would pay the soldier bonus for the next ten years. Germany has profited in giving worthless paper for property to the extent of four billions of dollars. This is one reason why Germany with a worthless currency can go on industrially and compete with us. We have furnished a large part of the real capital.

From the reports of the manufacturers of motor vehicles there must have been a lot of auto suggestion the past year.

Former president Wilson failed to win in the Missouri contest when Reed was nominated for the senate. But since then he has been more fortunate. His enemies have fallen by the way-side in numbers. Georgia refused to nominate Hardwick, a bitter Wilson enemy for governor; Mississippi defeated Vardaman, the radical mount-

Spanish Swindlers Busy Again.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—The Spanish swindle, which in the past has lured nobody knows how many dollars out of gullible America, is again being tried, this time presumably on a larger scale.

This celebrated hoax is based on the human weakness for easy money and adventure. Many people see no reason why adventure and great wealth should not wait around the corner for them just as in the movies and in magazine fiction.

So when an honest American citizen receives a letter bearing a Spanish postmark and addressed to him in quaint, foreign handwriting, he is intrigued. If he knows no one in Spain, he opens such a letter curiously, with all sorts of romantic possibilities buzzing through his brain. He reads the communication, and his wild speculation regarding it becomes suddenly tame. He learns that he has been selected to help a noble Russian who faces bankruptcy and is in prison. He reads further, breathless, and learns that "a modest fortune" of $120,000 is practically within his grasp.

The noble Russian has somewhere in America 300,000 good American dollars, and he is generously willing to reward the person addressed with one-third of them, if only he will help in the recovery of the money. The unfortunate Russian's baggage has been seized and he needs a trifling sum to reclaim it and to pay the registrar of the court for the expenses of the trial. In the portmanteau among the Russian's baggage there is a secret pocket, he says, and in the secret pocket he has "hidden two checks payable to the bank for that sum"—that is, for the $360,000.

The imprisoned man cannot receive letters in his Spanish prison, but he has a trusted friend. The American is requested to cable this friend, in Barcelona, who will instruct him how to proceed. If the chosen benefactor does cable, he will be told to send the small sum, compared to $120,000, necessary to recover the portmanteau. When he has cabled the money he finds the noble Russian and the trusted friend have passed quietly out of his life.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

September.

There's a sweater on the sofa, and a cap upon the chair. A bicycle is on the lawn, his skates are on the snow. I can't get up the driveway for his wagon's in the track. The house is topsy-turvy, but I'm glad that he is back.

The morning paper's scattered, for he's read the funnies through. His shoes are on the sofa, and the radio sings anew. Round the porch from dusk to twilight there's a shouting, romping pack of lusty, healthy youngsters, but I am glad that he is back.

Oh, the house was strangely silent, and the rooms were twin and neat. And there've been no shouts of tumult rising upwards from the street. I could whiz into my driveway at the ending of the day. And never find a wagon or plaything in the way.

But the house shows signs this morning that a healthy boy is here. The rooms are in disorder, and my tools all disappear. I cannot find the hammer when I want to drive a tack. Now the house is topsy-turvy, but I'm glad that he is back.

That tree of white,

That little blade of grass in your white hand,

That bluebell in your hair, the sky above,

All like reflected in your limpid eyes;

That swallow skimming low into the west—

All this will I remember, and forget,

When twilight comes that we do liftoor eyes

To see if Heaven held another gift.

A star.

You bound me first unto you by a look;

I binding you came to me from those eyes;

And then by word and deed you held me fast;

My heart cried out to loose the bonds;

I fling you from me and alas! I found

That parting chained me to you endlessly.

Love, our flower-white moments

Have burned into black hours—

Leaving only charred ashes

And my sighs.

MISS HELLNER-NIELSEN.

Born wealthy and educated for the social and intellectual circles of Europe, Miss Ingeborg Charlotte Hellner-Nielsen has forsaken a life of leisure for the serious work of a criminology expert. At twenty-six she is in New York to explain to police officials of the U. S. the new system of utilizing the finger print system of criminals which she, with identifying and tracking Dr. Hakon Jorgenson, director of police in Copenhagen, has perfected. She has devised a code method of sending finger print descriptions by wire, cable or wireless to spread up and simplify the hunt for important criminals.

Miss Hellner-Nielsen is an attractive, blonde, tanned, healthy, athletic girl.

She is a student at tennis and skating.

INTERVIEW WITH THE DIRECTOR OF THE NATIONAL MUSEUM.

—What is the origin of the name of the ruler?

—It is much romance identified with the name of Bridget which was first used by the ancient Celts.

The original form of the name was Bridget, indicating strength.

Legend is to the effect that the first girl to bear the name was a daughter of Erse, goddess of wisdom and poetry, and the god of fire. The Scotch version of the name was Bride.

Another bit of Irish folk-lore has it after St. Patrick got through with his job of driving the snakes away he took up the task of supplying the people with a substitute for their heathen goddess. With this in mind he selected a pretty Irish lass just freed from her bondage and re-baptized her Bridget. She became famous as St. Bridget and was mother superior of a convent with 500 nuns. The name Bridget became popular throughout the British Isles and modified versions of it are found in all European countries.

The accomplishment of this will be of inestimable importance to women," said Miss Hellner-Nielsen. "In the first place, it would be a great protection against kidnapping of children. It would also be a protection to women against a bigamist marriage, and would have an enormous effect in preventing fraud in the collection of insurance and numerous other crimes."

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 18, 1882.—The concluding performance of "Faust" was given at the Myers theater Saturday night, and was a greater success than the first. Miss Minerva Guernsey, playing the part of Marguerite, says that she will put the play on the stage next winter under a strong management, the leading role—A number of ex-soldiers will go to Milwaukee tomorrow to attend the grand reunion.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 18, 1892.—Herb Ford and Stanley Tallman, two of Janyseville's best cyclers, have returned from the Monroe fair. Ford did not enter any of the races, while Tallman came in second in one of the mile races—Calbraith Brothers of this city, won 16 prizes on their horses at the state fair this week.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Sept. 18, 1902.—Kindergartens, especially in the first ward, are causing trouble, as some of the older children in the schools where the kindergartens have been established, have been transferred to other schools. Many remedies are being suggested to alleviate the coal shortage which will be serious this winter.

TEN YEARS AGO

Sept. 18, 1912.—The corner stone of the First Church of Christ Scientist here was laid at the corner of South High and Pleasant streets early this morning.—Work on the new plow factory of the Janyseville Machine company is progressing rapidly, and it is expected that the building will be in use by the middle of October.

HOW TO GAIN ALL

Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these shall be added unto you.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

REST FOR THE SICK LUNG

The most valuable, and unfortunately the very last lesson the tuberculosis subject learns is that rest heals the sick lung. It's sad to contemplate the great number of victims of this disease who feel they know more instinctively or intuitively than a doctor knows and who indulge in daily walks, deep breathing, and other exercises. "I am up straight" when they should be enjoying the advantage of absolute rest. So far is insuring recovery concerned, TB subjects are largely grouped in two categories: Those who refuse to take the doctor's opinion that they've got it, and victims who finally admit that maybe the doctor was right and then proceed to experiment on themselves. Now the victim and his friends have not yet learned that tuberculosis is one of the world's severest chronic diseases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

STONE IN THE KIDNEY.

Can stone in the kidney be dissolved with medicine? Or is it better removed by operation?

Answer.—No known remedy will dissolve stone in the kidney, writer or bladder, nor stone in the gall-bladder, liver, or spleen. Removal should be effected by operation.

PAPER EATER.

Please tell me what eating paper will injure the health. Last year as a senior high school student I was very nervous and during examinations I used to tear off bits of paper and eat them. Now I am not nervous but still eat paper.

The Cross-Cut

A Serial Story of the Colorado Mines

By Courtney Ryley Cooper.

Copyright by Little, Brown & Co.

SYNOPSIS: Thornton Fairchild died, leaving the "Blue Poppy" mine at Chaudiere, Colorado, to his son, Robert. Robert's mind was a mystery which darkened the life of the father. He had fled from Chaudiere, leaving the mine. Robert goes to Colorado, a friend having many difficulties. The partners open the mine and in an inner chamber find the body of Robert Larsen with skull smashed. Robert thinks his father was murdered. Larsen was also under suspicion.

Following a hold-up of a dance hall, Harkins is arrested, charged with the crime. He is released on bail, but the door to the Blue Poppy being put up securely. Just as a vein of silver is found equal to that of the Silver Queen, Harkins disappears and Fairchild with a week's pay leaves the mine. Robert "Rodina" has a wife who lives in an isolated house in the woods near the mine. She is half crazy, but is the chief witness. Harry Harkins is the meantime Harry Harkins has been offered $200,000 for his mine by a Denver lawyer, acting for a mysterious woman, but refuses. He makes a deal with the company to sell his ore and advance him the money in order that Squint Rodina will not get the Blue Poppy after the Harkins bond is forfeited. Search for Harkins is on. Fairchild spends his last dollar trying to get the ore.

"Very well, I may need these men to work on a day and night shift. I'm not sure. I'll be back in an hour."

Away he went and up the shaft to travel as swiftly as possible through the drifts piled high down Kentucky gulch to the Sampler. There he sought out old Undertaker Chastine, and with him went to the proprietor.

"My name is Fairchild, and I'm in trouble," he said candidly. "I've brought Mr. Chastine with me because he assayed some of my ore a few days ago and believes he knows what it is worth. I'm working against time to get five thousand dollars to be able to produce ore that runs two hundred dollars a ton, and if I'll sell it to you for one hundred dollars a ton until I can get the money I need, provided I can get the permission of the court—will you put it through for me?"

The Sampler owner smiled.

"If you'll let me see where you're getting the ore." Then he squinted, "That'd be thirty or forty tons" came at last. "We could handle that as fast as you could bring it in."

But a new thought had struck Fairchild—a new necessity for money.

"I'll give it to you for one hundred and fifty dollars a ton, providing you do the hauling and load me enough after the first day or so to pay my men."

"But why all this excitement—and the rush?"

"My partner's Harry Hawkins. He's due for trial Friday, and he disappeared. The mine is up as security. You can see what will happen unless I can substitute a cash bond for the amount due before that time. Isn't that sufficient?"

"It ought to be. But as I said, I want to see where the ore comes from."

"You'll see in the morning—if I've got you in now." Fairchild with a sort of smile in his voice. "All that I have so far is an assay of some drill scrapings. I don't know how thick the vein is or whether it's going to pinch out in ten minutes after we strike it. But I'll know quickly soon."

"It's all right. But as I said, I want to see where the ore comes from."

"You'll see in the morning—if I've got you in now." Fairchild with a sort of smile in his voice. "All that I have so far is an assay of some drill scrapings. I don't know how thick the vein is or whether it's going to pinch out in ten minutes after we strike it. But I'll know quickly soon."

"Every day in the world is in his pockets—two hundred dollars. After he had paid them for their three days of labor there would be exactly six dollars left. But Fairchild did not hesitate. To Farrel's office he went and with him to an interview, in chambers, with the judge. Then the necessary permission having been granted, he hurried back to the mine and into the drifts, there to find the last of the muck being sent away from beneath the side of the cave-in. Fairchild had paid off. Then he turned to the foreman. Many of these men are game to take a chance."

"Pretty near all" of 'em—if there's any kind of a gamble to it."

"There's a lot of gamble in it. I've got just twenty dollars in my pocket enough to pay each man one dollar apiece for a night's work. This doesn't pay out. It does pay, for the wages are twenty dollars a day for three days, with everybody, including myself, working like hell. Who's gonna win?"

The answer came in unison. Fairchild led the way to the chamber, seized a hammer and took his place.

"There's two-hundred-dollar-one-back of this foot wall. If we break in and start a new slope," he announced. "It takes a six-foot hole to reach it. Then we can have the whole story by morning. Let's go!"

Along the great length of the foot wall extending off the distance of the big chamber the men began their work, five men to the drifts and as many to the ledges, as they started their double-jacking. Midnights came the first of the six-foot drifts sank to its ultimate depth. Then the second and third and fourth; "line, line, line fifth." They moved on. Hours more of work than the operator had been repeatable. The men had hopped for the powder house, far down the drifts by the shaft, lugging buck in their pockets the yellow, candle-like sticks of dynamite, with their waxy wrappers and their gelatinous contents, together with fuses and caps. Crimping nippers—the inevitable companion of a miner—came forth from the pockets of the men. Careful tampering, then the men took their places at the faces.

"Give the word," one of them announced crookedly as he turned to Fairchild. "Each of us'll light one of these things, and then I say we'll run. Because this is going to be some explosion!"

Fairchild smiled the smile of a man
